

How is Eleven28 Helping Women in Ministry?

Women Seminary Students

Eleven28 provides mentors, contemplative practices, and community with other women students. We want women entering ministry to have what they need for soul care BEFORE they start their work at a church.

Women in Ministry

Through our Covenant Groups, eleven28 provides deep friendships, contemplative practices, and shared wisdom. The relationships women nurture in a Covenant Group lasts long after the groups end.

How Can My Church Support Women in Ministry?

Covenant Groups meet once a month for nine months - September through May. Group members commit to meeting for one full day each month. Meetings include time for contemplative practices that they can continue on their own as well as teach their congregation. Each meeting also includes time for members to share what's happening in their ministry and receive the shared wisdom of each woman in the group.

How Can My Church Support Women in Ministry?

Become a Financial Partner with Eleven28

Partner Churches for Women in Ministry are committed to the soul's wellbeing for every one of our women in ministry. They likely have women on their own church staff and are conscious of the unique challenges women face in professional settings, especially churches.

Becoming a Church Partner Means...

- Making an annual financial commitment to the work of eleven28. Your gift will be designated so that it goes specifically to our work with women in ministry.
- Receiving soul care opportunities for ALL of your church staff, not just the women.
- Receiving discounts on certain eleven28 spiritual formation offerings.
- Staying up to date about eleven28's work through regular reports.

What Are Our Next Steps?

- Gather your decision-makers and schedule a meeting with Trey Finley, our executive director.
- Decide together on the regular soul care you'd like your staff to receive, including the women working with you.
- Discern the right level of financial investment for your church.
